When you share information with us, for example by requesting compensation for a flight disruption. As you use our services, we want you to be clear how we're using information and the ways in which you can protect your privacy.

Our Privacy Policy explains:

- What information we collect and why we collect it
- How we use that information

We've tried to keep it as simple as possible, but if you're not familiar with terms like cookies, IP addresses, pixel tags and browsers, then please read about these key terms first before using our site or services. Your privacy matters to Airnsquare Inc. (hereafter referred to as 'Airnsquare') so whether you are new or a long-time user, please do take the time to get to know our practices.

When you do, we'll ask for personal information, like your name, email address, telephone number. If you want to take full advantage of the sharing features we offer, we might also request you to grant us access to post a statement on Facebook (requires your consent, which is often provided digitally), which may include your name and photo.
- Information we get from your use of our services. We collect information about the services that you use and how you use them, like which site pages have you visited. This information includes:
 - Device information and log information
 - Location information and local storage

Whenever you use our services, we aim to provide you with access to your personal information. If that information is wrong, we strive to give you ways to update it quickly or to delete it – unless we have to keep that information for legitimate business or legal purposes. When updating your personal information, we may ask you to verify your identity before we can act on your request.

We may reject requests that are unreasonably repetitive, require disproportionate technical effort (for example, developing a new system or fundamentally changing an existing practice), risk the privacy of others, or would be extremely impractical (for instance, requests concerning information residing on backup systems).

Where we can provide information access and correction, we will do so for free, except where it would require a disproportionate effort. We aim to maintain our services in a manner that protects information from accidental or malicious destruction. Because of this, after you delete information from our services, we may not immediately delete residual copies from our active servers and may not remove information from our backup systems.
